WHAT IS DATA ANALYTICS?

Data analytics turns raw, messy, high-volume data into decisions. It spans data engineering pipelines, exploratory statistics, machine learning and the storytelling layer that puts a number in front of a decision-maker. In 2026 the discipline has shifted again: analysts now orchestrate LLM copilots, semantic layers and real-time streams rather than static monthly reports.

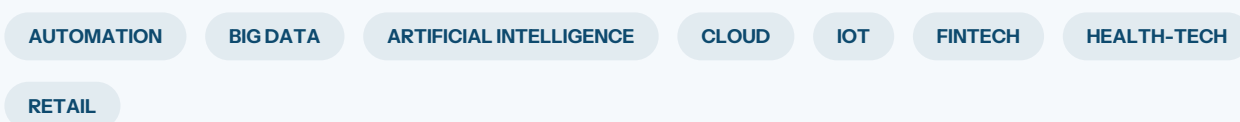

MARKET SCOPE

The global big data and analytics market was valued at $198.08 Bn in 2020 and is projected to reach $684.12 Bn by 2030 — a 23.5% CAGR.
